Key Macros are a powerful alternative to virtual mouse pads, keyboard overlays and sticky keys. They are really easy to use: Just drag and drop a macro file from the.ZIP archive in to the Key Macro Manager. The program will recognize all text files ending with the extension ".key" and will add a corresponding key macro to the already existing key macro library. Each key macro consists of a sequence of text entered directly in the Text Format Editor in the Key Macro Manager or copied from a key board layout. Different programs or software modules can have their own key macros, and all that is necessary is to drop the key macros into the Key Macro Manager. The Macros can be printed out or written to a floppy disk or hard drive for further use. You can also modify the key macros directly in the program. You can easily select keys or keys groups from the full keyboard or create your own as well. Notes and Tips: When modifying the key macros, only the settings in the text editor are saved. If you want to insert a special character into a key macro, you have to select it from the character list, copy it and paste it into the text editor. The key macros can be organized into key groups. You can then switch between the groups with a single click on a button. To start a game, choose from among the most popular games, click the title of the desired game and press the Enter key. If you have a good game, you can tell that it is fun with a single look. There are further tools, such as a print to text converter, a document writer, a calculator, a text format editor, a calculator, a converter and a dictionary. The program can also save the key macros as key macros and key map files. The key macros can be edited in the program. Version 1.5.5 - 12.01.1999 - Support
