Logitech Unifying Receiver (Wireless Technology) KeyMacro lets you control your Logitech wireless devices without having to worry about typing in commands. With this feature enabled you will be able to press a single key on your keyboard to control your mouse, keyboard and all your wireless devices.... Description Logitech Unifying is a reliable receiver that you can use to connect up to 6 wireless devices to the same computer. In addition to the actual hardware receiver, you also need to install the dedicated software application so as to manage all connected clients with ease. As suggested by the application's name, the receiver and the utility can only be used with compatible Logitech mice, keyboards or pointing devices (i.e. the Unifying logo needs to be printed on them). This way, you will no longer need to plug in a different receiver for each of them, thus leaving the rest of the USB ports available to be used with other devices. Furthermore, since the Unifying is small, you can even leave it connected to your notebook at all times, thus making sure it does not get lost or misplaced. Once you have paired all your Unifying devices, you can rely on the software solution to review information related to each of them, such as battery level or firmware version. You can also disconnect an item or connect a new one via this application. All in all, Logitech Unifying can come in handy to all those who want to get rid of the many receivers they need to plug in when they want to connect wireless devices. Furthermore, since the app can also be used to monitor the battery level for each paired item, you can also recharge them in due time.Weezer Catches Our Attention Related Tags: DENVER (CBS4) – The band Weezer is back and they're excited.
